Well another year has come and gone. Now is the time to relax and have some all important family time. For me this has been quite a year, four operations, knees, hands, and hips, I am now the Bionic Man. Next year will be a full year for myself and your students.

For my sixth graders we finished the year with our World Maps from Memory. You should have them by now, along with their first try in September. Remarkable progress was made by all as you can see. Quiz them on country names and capitals, I think you'll be amazed.

Seventh grade finished with our Rome Unit. We spent the year traversing histories great civilizations, from Mesopotamia to Rome. From here we go to the middle Ages up to the American Revolution. Now they are ready to be the top dogs in the school next year in 8th grade.

Eighth grade wandered down many a path this year. They traveled through Europe, and on up to the present with Current Events. Our Law Unit and American Revolution Unit prepared them for their class trip to Washington D.C. School to Career topics were explored as well, all in an attempt to get them ready for their next stop, High School. Let's wish them well.

So for now have a great summer, do some traveling, exploring, and some days a whole lot of nothing. I will see you in the fall.
